"Something Salty, Something Sweet"

In the leaves where the trees grow like water in the sea
Nature speaks, speaks to me
Something salty, something sweet
I am naked in the dark
With my eyelids shining like flashlights
In the mist of our dirty playtime
And for the meantime
We are echoes of spring time

Way-ah way-ah way-ah way-ah...

She won't return my, my sweet affection
You are elected and I am lucky to know you
And slowly, slowly but surely, she gets to know me
Man, I was lucky she knew me
And every single time I try to spew another line
It's not the sanity I find, it's how I lose my mind
Because the imagery you set
Is always natural and sexy
I'd be nicer if you let me but for now I think
That I will tuck away

Way-ah way-ah way-ah way-ah...

I can't lose my muse and I probably can't stay
I'm not worth your time, you're my time of day

Way-ah way-ah way-ah way-ah...
