This Saturday night I heard what they wanted me to believe too hard
All my worries and troubles drunk out with ease Came Sunday morning I felt such a waste in my life, couldn't say no Taking to long on everything holding on its all just keeping me back

Just the other day I saw the ones I loved the friends who aimlessly slipped away

Every little bit of take or break makes me think of times that might have past and gone
I've been too long
Wondering where the friends and fun have gone
My time was too late,
I've been too long

We all heard that I did not like them (You Know what you've done wrong)
I said no one knows what is my truth (You and I don't belong) Will you believe me I cant do it right(your words were crap all along) My voice spoke nothing but of sorrow (you've always done everything wrong)

Just the other day I saw the ones I loved
the friends who aimlessly slipped away

I have been too F*cking long
I have been too F*cking long
I have been too F*cking long
I have been too F*cking long
I have been too F*cking long
I have been too F*cking long
Every little bit of take or break makes me think of times
that might have past and gone
I've been too long

Every little bit of take or break makes me think of times

that might have past and gone
I've been too long
Wondering where the friends and fun have gone
My time was too late,
I've been too long

Wondering where the friends and fun have gone
My time was too late,
I've been too long
