In the family of the free but the freedom drags a bitter taste amidst all it's harmony look deep inside comfort and security breed sick infected minds who feed on lust and ecstasy battered bodies shattered dreams lining the streets no end to the means crippled corpses vandalized souls degraded penetrated beaten down bought and sold pied piping foreigners arrive each day ti blindly lead the innocent toward their indecent ways branded children who only see the money and toys supposedly given for free outlined bodies littered dreams lining the streets no end to the means riddled corpses violated souls when you're degraded penetrated beaten down bought and sold oh my brother how do you explain being tied to yourself no longer my brother what pleasures ar left to gain look deep inside yourself wrapped in bundles of pain into everyday blindly we see the power of the dollar
the other currencies is the money they make worth the price that they pay it doesn't really matter when there's one born everyday battered bodies shattered dreams lining the streets no end to the means crippled corpses vandalized souls degraded penetrated beaten down bought and sold once again the night arrives as I bleed the tears of sorrow this can't be all to expect from life I'll pray for better things tomorrow
