Walking along the boulevard

Speaking into the air

Where can I find the life

I know that only dreams can share

I close my eyes and see you there

Calling me far beyond

Wrapped in a robe of mystery

You wave your magic wand

Maybe it's real, only life is illusion

Don't break my heart

Hold out your hand and I'll never lose you

Don't break my heart

Yes, I'm a man and just flesh and bone

But you do not live, all my dreams are your home

I stare through a veil, so thin, yet so near

And walk in your footsteps as you cast off my fear

Walk with me through the gates of time to eternity

AND our love will never fade away

We can fly to a bridge across the sky

Where the souls that would always cry will never

Fade away

Walking along the boulevard

Wishing we were complete

Why are some things so very hard to witness and believe

The victor of this universe

The victim of the wind

Where does a dream begin and end

And where does life begin

Maybe it's real, only life is illusion

Don't break my heart

Hold out your hand and I'll never lose you

Don't break my heart

Yes, I'm a man and just flesh and bone

But you do not live, all my dreams are your home

I stare through a veil, so thin, yet so near

And walk in your footsteps as you cast off my fear

Walk with me through the gates of time to eternity

And our love will never fade away

We can climb to a bridge across the sky

Where the souls that would always cry will never

Fade away
