Graham Russell)

We are civilized and free from all confusion

And yet we always worry for the things that we can't see

But now to give your love away, a miracle in motion

You know what seems invisible will never ever be disguised to me

I start to lose control

I start to lose control

CHORUS

I know I will remember for longer than forever

All the love and the stars in your eyes

Until my arms surround you and build the world around yo

All I see are the stars in your eyes

First you hear the angels sing and then you see the wedding ring

Shining as the threads of life so secretly are woven

You know what you've found, you want to last forever

Your heart has found its wings and left for never never

And then I lose control

I start to lose control

CHORUS
