(d. sahanaja)

Feel the alpine glow

Open a path through the air

It's charted out the canyons in me

However empty they might be

I still go on

Spanning far and wide away from my world

I send my message

Hoping that you're somewhere out there

And I won't receive telemetry till you're here

Trace a ray of sound

Feel the pulse of my soul

So far evolved to climb from the cold

And like an ancient compass told

I still go on

Spanning far and wide away from my world

I send my message

Hoping that you're somewhere out there

And I won't receive telemetry till you're here

I span the cosmos that found you

And I've never been this way before

I've built a kingdom to crown you

All that surrounds you

All that glows is gathered here and now

And I won't receive telemetry till you're here

I won't achieve telemetry till you're here
