(s macdonald)

And she's been fishing for compliments
Makes her cast over the water
She is still weak but growing stronger
Like a web you don't attend to

And it's always good to see you
But don't use me for your vengeance

Her heart's been peeled like a grape
She's looking for someone to cling to
And if I throw her out a life line
Will I be sucked into the whirlpool

And it's always good to see you
But don't use me for your vengeance

One never knows
She let her guard down
I could say too much
The day you don't look twice is the day the train comes by

He just pretends he doesn't see her
She sees too much to pretend
Her disappointment his indifference
Is something she can keep forever

And it's always good to see you
Just don't use me for your vengeance
