Seems like we're almost
Back to where we began
So much has changed on the way
So much to go through
With so little to show
Wouldn't have it any other way

What would you change if
You could turn back the clock?
Regrets, they weigh on your mind
But still there's nothing
That can change the facts
No way to go back in time

No one can say we didn't try
You know, we gave it every possible chance
So life goes on, each day by day
And now we're doing the best that we can

Seems people turn the backs so quickly these days
And give up so easily
It takes so much more to stand your ground
Than just to let it be
So now we're left alone with nothing to do
And almost nothing to say
A total lack of inspiration takes hold
We're looking for something to change

No one can say we didn't try
You know, we gave it every possible chance
So life goes on, each day by day
And now we're doing the best that we can

And all along, we both knew one day this would end
Yeah all along, we both knew one day this would end

No one can say we didn't try
You know, we gave it every possible chance
So life goes on, each day by day
And now we're doing the best that we can

And all along, we both knew one day this would end

And all along, we both knew one day this would end
Yeah all along, we both knew one day this would end
