Well, ever since the day that time began,
There's been this thing between a woman and a man.
I don't know, but I do believe,
That it started in the Garden with Adam an' Eve.
Samson and Delilah had their fling,
Till she cut his hair and clipped his wings.
It don't matter how the story's told,
'Cause love stays young, it can't grow old.

Let me tell you it 'bout love,
About the moon an' the stars above.
It's what we've all been dreamin' of.
Let me tell you it 'bout love.

Well, Boneparte an' Josephine,
I believe they had a pretty good scene,
Until she said: "Boney, boy we're through."
An' that's when he met his Waterloo.
Julie, baby, an' Romeo,
Fell in love an' stole the show.
I know they are history,
But there ain't been nothin' like you an' me.

Let me tell you it 'bout love,
About the moon an' the stars above.
It's what we've all been dreamin' of.
Let me tell you it 'bout love.
Let me tell you it 'bout love.

Instrumental Break.

Now Sheba, she was a beauty queen:
The prettiest thing you ever seen.
Now Solomon, he was mighty wise,
But Sheba, she done caught his eye.
World would be in a dreadful fix,
If it wasn't for the love between cats an' chicks.
This world, it wouldn't amount to much,
Without a hug an' kiss and a tender touch.

Let me tell you it 'bout love,

About the moon an' the stars above.
It's what we've all been dreamin' of.
Let me tell you it 'bout love.

Let me tell you it 'bout love,
About the moon an' the stars above.
It's what we've all been dreamin' of.
Let me tell you it 'bout love.
Let me tell you it 'bout love.
Let me tell you it 'bout love.
Yeah.
