Lyrics/Music Mack Gordon/Harry Warren

We've been to London's Piccadilly

When it was time for tea

We walked along the Champs ElyseÃ©

The pride of gay Paree

You can rave about your Broadway and Times Square

Come on along and let me show you the grandest thoroughfare

Hop a bus, take a car

Hail a cab and there you are

On Fifth Avenue (old Fifth Avenue)

Ev'ry Joe, ev'ry Jane

Walks along that dreamer's lane

On Fifth Avenue (that's Fifth Avenue)

Where they stop, window shop, and their hopes are so high

Pricing rings, pretty things that they can't afford to buy

But they smile, they don't care

Ev'ryone's a millionaire

When you're strolling on Fifth Avenue

Easter bonnets bright and gay

New York's finest on Saint Patrick's Day

Flags are flying, see them wave
Soldiers marching in mem'ry of the brave
There are shouts, there are cheers
Mingled with a mother's tears
On Fifth Avenue (old Fifth Avenue)
All the world's on parade
Where the fashions are made
On Fifth Avenue (that's Fifth Avenue)
Fancy shops, small caf  s, a cathedral and then
Central Park, Cartier's, and a Woolworth's five and ten
What a street, what a thrill
Say, you haven't lived until
You've been strolling on Fifth Avenue
You've been strolling on Fifth Avenue
