

With A Voice

"For Good Measure"

Visit "For Good Measure" on MotoLyrics.com

Was it because I was born this way or shaped this way?
Was it the poison I consumed or the lies I fed into?
Because you seemed to have forgotten that I still breathe.

And with every breath, I choke on unclean air.

There isn't a place inside my heart for you.

I widened the space between us a long time ago.

I gave you all you didn't want from me.

And I guess it wasn't so easy.

I tried to save you from yourself, but it didn't even matter.

I want to see what you see in me.

I want to live the life that you set free.

Wipe the doubt clear from my mind.

I've wasted all my life just trying to run from what I wanted.

Oh Holy Host, am I a parasite for needing you?

Can you hear my pleas? Oh God end this agony for me.

My only son just hear me out.

I spit fire on the ground that you walk on.

He never turned his back, you rejected his arms.

And I screamed for the answers I never received.

You can't blame him for all of this.

Visit With A Voice page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.