

Thanks To Gravity

"Floating Orange Honeymoon"

Visit "Floating Orange Honeymoon" on MotoLyrics.com

Too tall

That's what you said about the window

That's what you said about the vase

I bought for your artificial roses

It's small time business you don't want to be concerned with the small time his kiss showers you with care but still imposes

I stare

staring back into the splitting clouds that let me see the sun it's like a floating orange eye

I glare

sometimes reflected a hundred thousand times from a lake no bigger than an eye

CHORUS:

But it's high tide

the moon is passing over head this is my side

I've only been where I was led and when I die dont let them know that I am dead let me hide make sure everybody knows what I have said Falling, falling, like a flute that's been thrown out a window it hums a pretty note This is what?

did you say this was a honeymoon? well I would've prepared for this if I had known now you and I sit facing each other cross our legs and (mystery line) on a bed that's shaped like a heart
CHORUS

Visit Thanks To Gravity page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.