"The Night Moved On"

i went to a bar
to have a rest again
i saw him then
a smiling old man
came rushing in
he sat down close to me and soon i could see he's older than it seemes to me and the night moved on and i got no sleep his furrowed face
told a story of life
his restless eyes
kept his face alive
his face alive
his tanned skin did not tell of his age i could see
he's older than it seemed to me he left the bar
then he spoke to me
and i was captured
'cause now i could see his way of life
he said little girl you'd better do what you want your life is too short to waste time
