"With the Greatest of Ease"

You were in my dreams tonight
and it seems you almost floated around
with the greatest of ease.
We christened the night with visible fire,
I watched you fall asleep.
When it all came down it seemed...
familiar...

I could feel your strength tonight
and it seemed you've always thrown me around
with the greatest of ease.
I kept feeling your eyes,
breathing the fire,
watching me fall asleep.
When it all came down it fell straight on top of me.

I don't want to live in the moment
for the moment is gone.
I don't want to live forever;
forever's too long.
I've seen enough to know when I've been wrong,
and I've seen enough to know when my heart is strong enough to move.
