Wait till your boat goes down
That's when you'll need me most
Wait till your boat goes down
And you're washed up on some foreign and Unfamiliar coast
Yachting's fine
Sailing round and round in social circles
In a sea of diamonds and wine
Wait till you need a shoulder
A girl's best friend's not any consolation when you're that much older Skiing's grand Drawing classic lines around the millionaires and moneymen from Switzerland
Wait till you need a shoulder
A girl's fox furs won't warm your heart
When you're that much older
And if you're late and man he sees you when you're young and looking good Watch the big fish swim right out to take the bait you offered like you knew they would Too much caviar only points to middle aged spread There won't be room for many playboys in your single bed
Wait till your boat goes down
That's when you'll need me most
Wait till your boat goes down
And you're washed up!
