Sometimes it rains inside my head

All the words run dry

Walls are breathing hands are reaching up

To touch my thigh

No they don't have to take you away

No they don't have to take you away

No they don't have to take you away

No they don't have to take you away

Sometimes it's bright inside my head

Just like the spark in my eyes

And hands are breathing ones are reaching up

Cause that's the time we rise

No they don't have to take you away

No they don't have to take you away

No they don't have to take you away

No they don't have to take you away

(That's breaking away again)

No they don't have to take you away
