Arms and legs I fold
Six in the morning it's cold
There on the bed I'd stranded
The first snow had landed
Outside my window

Cars move in one direction
No intersections
Trying just to get there soon
Under the big moon
Outside my window

A new day on the rise
A chance to maybe think twice
But everything is said and done
And I'm all ready to run
Outside my window

The city moves on without
Me in it
The city lives on without
Me in it
The city lives on without
Me in it

Turning that key around
Leaving everything behind
Houses pass me by
Nothing but the flickering lights
Outside my window

Poison in the veins of summer
Frozen in November
Why I even left at all
Is hard to remember
Outside my window
The city is cold

The city lives on without
Me in it
The city lives on without

Me in it
Oh, the city moves on without
Me in it
Me in it
