only your outer line shape of my indecision
as of yet
details are undefined
true to your definition i doubted
separated by some eclipse found the right words but they only died on my lips they always die on my lips
you must be something real remember the time it's taken thought i'd forget come on now, it's no big deal you'd think so, but you're mistaken i'm tired
and everything disconnects but i can't wait to find out what will happen next tell me what happens next i always miss, inanely what others see so plainly it takes a time or two for me with every color graying and every word you're saying losing all trace of clarity
