I guess that these days we all are walking around saying,

"I've been a fool it didn't matter 'till it woke me up today."

So, tell me how you'd really feel
if everything you know now was thrown in motion?

So, go on and change your world.

It's looking up I swear, I think I feel it rising in the air.
Somebody save me from this wretchedness that I once called my life.

Times are begging for a change.
I'll spend the rest of my days with full devotion.

So, go on and change your world if you want to.
There's no harm in trying girl.
Say you want to.
The hardest parts we've been through.
