Listen to your words as they're coming out.
Think about the thought, 'cause you think out-loud.
Everyone here has the same fears.
As we're growing older,
we doubt everything we thought about being possible
at all.
This constant drifting away leaves me wondering...

What is this love I've been thinking of, keeping me up all night long?
I've been pacing, my heart is racing,
how soon the days end when time is wasting away.
Don't let time waste away.

I spent a couple days cleaning up the mess.
I couldn't take the pain, couldn't take the stress.
One reflection, two directions.
No one knows what we'll find
if we just open our minds to the possibilities.
There's no more drifting away, no wondering.

Don't let time waste away.
