The vision of tomorrow shines, like the mirror on the wall
cast an image of my people dancing and survival was the law.
The shadows of the clouds move on, race by as I close my eyes
making shapes of our great ancestors, as the daylight leaves the sky.

Sometimes I think we're poor boys here, got no money
got no job
and at times when I might turn to drink, I lose my head but then I start to think.

Going to pick it up ãfÂçâ, ¬" lift it up.
Going to pick it up ãfÂçâ, ¬" lift it up.
Lift the game a bit ãfÂçâ, ¬" pick it up.
Going to lift it up ãfÂçâ, ¬" pick it up.
