I wish I could find some clever anecdote to say to align itself with the world today but its hard its hard to grasp reason and compassion when did we all decide to give in to the latest fashion maybe its because all of our thoughts are wrapped up in such tiny boxes and its so hard to see the other side, the other side.
I dont care if youre a sinner, I dont care if youre a saint I dont care if youre a new age philosopher just trying to reconcile his faith just remember that faith hates violence and remember that love hates hate and remember your childhood stories and remember what made them great.

cuz theres truth to be found and to be told lets embrace all of our differences before we all grow old Im not speaking from some golden pedestal of righteousness
but its not hard to see that were caring less and less.

maybe its time we stop thinking like were all the same maybe its time we stopped fighting wars in Gods holy name you may think that Im right, you may think I am wrong but it really doesnt matter cuz Id still write this song

Im not speaking from some golden pedestal of
but its you and me and all the rest we should be grateful to be blessed
