the air quality suggests that I'll be breathing less and less the closer we get to summer and I'll suffer reductions in my gas exchange production the longer that I live here and what are we giving up? what are we leaving behind? you smile and say "I dont care, it's your problem not mine"

that the humid air has made a mess of whats left of my insides it's not as warm as it feels outside as I'm pulling down the uv index but my hands are losing grip
