oh this world it makes me tired drains me of all my desires and all these hearts have grown so cold were all needing something moremore let your love come down let your love come down on me I said et your love come down let your love come down on me again and again my heads been asking so many questions my hearts pulled in a million different directions and I have this feeling that Ive been here before but Im still needing so much moremore

let your love come down
let your love come down
let your love come down on me

Ive been up on my back staring up at the clouds saying whats wrong with this world? now I look up to the sky asking please let your love come and change my life cuz I need your love I need you

let your love come down
let your love come down
let your love come down on me again
