Someone told me I could never find someone that I could consider the one but,
A certain someone came into my life and I finally felt alive for the first time in my life.
Most say it was luck, some say it was a perfect find, but I knew that it was much, much more.
All the feelings I had and the feelings I have grow into something more than I ever imagined.
Not gold, not silver, not ruby, not pearl; not nickels, not times, not quarters, nor dollars.
This, I found, this girl, she is all and more, the treasure
I was looking for.
Humble thoughts people gave me, but listened I not,
for this girl, this treasure, I can call the one.
All alone, I sit and think what I am doing is right, and what I am doing, the conclusion, I think right.

Does this mean I found what I was looking for was right
there this entire time?
In the end, I will know what all this means, the one, the real, I have found it.
And the hole in me, it filled, my life is complete and I finally feel alive.
Now I see that life means so much more, to me, she is my world.
Enrichened inside, my heart grows in size, for I can finally breathe, a new aspect of life.

My life, my dreams, are almost at whole, she filled the gap where my depression fed.
As for my dreams, they will come complete, and in those dreams, she will be with me until the end.
Contemplating, need to think not, for this girl is the stars and the full moon I gaze upon.
Knotted a tie and at the end of the rope, I found a rope and on my end was you and I can't let it go.
In this world, there is real and make believe, real, this is, to me.
Not the people, nor their words, not the downfalls, not the friends, not the distance in future,
Nor the demons we all possess inside, not the poison

apple we bite into will end this.
On this ride we call life, we run through many good things, many of those great things was you.
Never say never because in the end, never can turn into forever.
