I've gotta get this off my chest.
I'm startin' to feel a little unrest.
Oh every time I check my shoulder
I see you there with a clueless look on your face
I've got to question your intentions
Are you playing this one by the book?
Whichever version you're preaching from
I've sung it once before

I know, I know you well enough
And if I looked hard, if I looked hard enough
I know, I know you well enough
And if I looked hard, if I looked hard enough

If you were so honest,
Why do you break every promise?
With everything that you say,
I take a pinch of whatever's around me
You don't like the size of us now
We've grown a lot since Hold Me Down
I can't help but think
You're the only thing in front of me

I know, I know you well enough
And if I looked hard, if I looked hard enough
I know, I know you well enough
And if I looked hard, if I looked hard enough

You put a price on everything
You even tried to put one on me
I give my all for your benefit
I'm sick of this shit

It's not your fault you always claim
You always cease to take the blame
I love you all for everything that you do
But I'm sick and tired of the f*cking abuse
I'm sick of this shit
I'm sick of this shit
