I can't believe how far we've come.
These past few years have just raced by.
Now I'm scared of what the future will bring.
Feels like I've reached the end of the line.

Just think, in a week, we'll all be gone.
Maybe never to speak again.
Or will we meet up sometime, somewhere?
This part of our lives must end.

(Chorus)

Now, we've reached the end of the line
We've found another path
We've learned to leave the past behind,
But wish we could make it last

Oh, time has taught us many things,
How to love, hurt, and be kind
But now, as we go our separate ways,
We've reached the end of the line.

I know this seems quite scary
As we wait our turn in line
They call our names, though some remain
Sad to be left behind

I'll always remember
All the times we've been through
And I know I'll never forget you
That's just something I can't do.

(Chorus)

Now, we've reached the end of the line
We've found another path
We've learned to leave the past behind,
But wish we could make it last

Oh, time has taught us many things,
How to love, hurt, and be kind
But now, as we go our separate ways,
We've reached the end of the line.

So, here we are, up on stage
On this very strange day in June
And I never got the chance to tell you so,
But, baby, I love you...

(Guitar solo)

So, tell me why I never got the chance.
Why I didn't have the guts or time.
Why I waited for so long...
Cuz now I'm at the end of the line.

(Chorus)

Now, we've reached the end of the line
We've found another path
We've learned to leave the past behind,
But wish we could make it last

Oh, time has taught us many things,
How to love, hurt, and be kind
But now, as we go our separate ways,
We've reached the end of the line.

Oh oh oh. The end of the line.
