Morning comes too early and nighttime falls too late

And sometimes all I want to do is wait

The shadow I've been hiding in has fled from me today

I know it's easier to walk away than look it in the eye

But I will raise a shelter to the sky and here beneath this star tonight I'll lie

She will slowly yield the light

As I awaken from the longest night

Dreams are shaking

Set sirens waking up tired eyes

With the light the memories all rush into his head

By a candle stands a mirror

Of his heart and soul she dances

She was dancing through the night above his bed

And walking to the window

he throws the shutters out against the wall

And from an ivory tower hears her call

'Let light surround you'

It's been a long, long time

He's had awhile to think it over
In the end he only sees the change
Light to dark
Dark to light
Light to dark
Dark to light
Heaven must be more than this
When angels waken with a kiss
Sacred hearts won't take the pain
But mine will never be the same
He stands before the window
His shadow slowly fading from the wall
And from an ivory tower hears her call
'Let the light surround you'
Once lost but I was found
When I heard the stained glass shatter all around me
I sent the spirits tumbling down the hill
But I will hold this one on high above me still She whispers words to clear my mind
I once could see but now at last I'm blind
I know it's easier to walk away than look it in the eye
But I had given all than I could take
And now I've only habits left to break
Tonight I'll still be lying here
Surrounded in all the light
