Do you know how the story goes guess you know it by now better leave your mind in the car instead I don't waiting for the war to come praying for a lonely heart to break bluebirds waiting for their chance

Do you know where the river ends pray for good, pray for lords to the lies when we were united and surely started to faint away far inside the setting sun oh, the Morning daylight still rests praying for a broken heart to buy who know what the tide will bring

I dont know where the sun will take me but I ain't going back no more to the start to the steady motion one more try to rise
praying for a lonely heart to break
fading sun again
