The sun is always finding the wall
The dark is defining a new low
A new low

The beams are whispers in his heart
A diligent man with no call
No call

So how long - and how long long will it take
For us to make it home

And how long - and how long will it take
For us to make it home

His arms are marked with pain
It shows the life he's thrown away
It's marked in his face

The sun is always finding the wall
The dark is defining a new low
A new low

The beams are whispers in his heart
A diligent man with no call
No call

So how long - and how long long will it take
For us to make it home

And how long - and how long will it take
For us to make it home

His arms are marked with pain
It shows the life he's thrown away
It's marked in his face

So how long - and how long long will it take
For us to make it home

And how long - and how long will it take
For us to make it home
