"The Start"

Refer to the sky, assesing the scope,
You'd thought I'd died already,
There's only one try, it hardens my hopes,
It flows right through me.

I am running away, I can't keep up this pace,
It's been going on for miles.

These chases and places, I'm speaking bout changes,
I couldn't find my own two hands,
My options untie, the knife at my throat,
You'd thought I'd died already,

I am running away,
I can't keep up this pace,
yet it's been going on for miles,
It's much harder this way,
They keep raising the stakes,
I'm not giving up tonight,

I've been believing this all along,
What I started with is gone,
I'm moving forward with one more stop,
The Start.

My spirits are high on the slippery slopes,
You'd thought I'd died already.
My eye on the prize, despite all the costs,
it flows right through me...

I am running away,
I can't keep up this pace,
yet it's been going on for miles,
It's much harder this way,
They keep raising the stakes,
I'm not giving up tonight,

I've been believing this all along,
What I started with is gone,
I'm moving forward with one more stop,
The Start.

I'm moving forward with one more stop,
One more stop,
just one more,
One more stop.

I've been believing this all along,
What I started with is gone,
I'm moving forward with one more stop,
The Start.

I've been believing this all along,
What I started with is gone,
I'm moving forward with one more stop,
The Start.
