A Little Bit

On a trip, a careless trip
Not looking back
Leaving everything that doesn't feel good

Now we're out to seize the world
We're finally free
Nothing left to do than just to be

In here I am surrounded by my soul
No one
No one can touch me now.

A little bit's not enough
When we're waiting for it all
No matter how much it hurts us
We always want more.
A little bit means nothing
When we're fighting for it all
No matter how much it hurts us
We still want more

Since love is blind
We're only trusting what we hear
Listen to the love that we give
The echo of our singing spreads
And we're not alone
Determined souls will gather for this love

Let go Let go the strain that you contain
Lets go Lets go try to find our way
In here we are surrounded by our soul
No one No one can stop us now

A little bit's not enough
When we're waiting for it all
No matter how much it hurts us
We always want more.
A little bit means nothing

When we're fighting for it all
No matter how much it hurts us
We still want more

Every scream is trying to say something
We're all on a quest and we're aiming for it all
We will forever be OK
And you dicide whats right or wrong

A little bit's not enough
When we're waiting for it all
No matter how much it hurts us
We always want more.
A little bit means nothing
When we're fighting for it all
No matter how much it hurts us
We still want more
