Once upon a century
I bailed my heart in a jewel case
To protect it from all those cruel hawks
I was afraid to lose my path
To lose my faith my home my grace
Don't hide your lies

Once upon a century
I thought the freedom was the key cages are only for the mind
I cannot understand
Why you want to befool me

Dreams are empty illusions
All your words are lies
I don't want believe your tales
Because you wear a mask

I was afraid to lose my path
To lose my faith my home my grace
Don't hide your lies

Dreams are empty illusions
All your words are lies
I don't want believe your tales
Because you wear a mask

I showed you my heart
And you betrayed my soul

Dreams are empty illusions
All your words are lies
I don't want believe your tales
