"when you wake up the way theres no one to be theres two holes in the wall where you stared it away no other waking hour will be the same

these dreams were made for walking no other purpose will save them and crushes no other melody ive found

turn your back
never alone
and theres nowhere between theres nowhere to go and theres no one to capture into sound
its so sad

two holes in the wall become holes in the ground and you ask yourself if its the light in the hall that pulls you in closer, or keeps you in your corner no one would recognize me then the distance kept us two holes in wall now we're holes in the ground

we're two holes in the wall we're now holes in the ground
