[Intro]

Dah dah dah dah dah dah dah

I just wanna know if its worth it

If its worth it

I just wanna know if everything, everything, everything, everything is worth it

[Verse]

I tell em, I'm not a conscious rapper, just a rapper with conscience

Thats real enough to speak on my people living in problems

see I live with them to, so everything aint peachy keen although these days, my insomnia's got me closer to my dreams ironic aint it, just tryna make it although Its hard tryna stare at the world when you feel ya eyes is jaded or Is it the window pane, or maybe the lies they paint with see I analyze and I've realized that we live inside the matrix

so can you define what pain is for someone whose walked in my shoes

I speak for them guys that identify with having seen all of my views

Real, life is based off what you feel feelings dicte your emotions which motivate how you live

whats yo circumstance how do you give purpose to those who feel they need worth too

thats like asking a homeless child if he has a curfew we need place in the world, but my faith in this world

Is on the fence like wilson, Earl H of this world// just a little Home Improvement will do it well tell that to them niggas going through them niggas going ape shit struggling to make it fresh up out the struggle out the rumble they was placed in this is the shit I'm obligated to report to you cuz if not these very people will be lost to you but at the same time I here on the same grind and labels screaming scolla this is snap lean and shake time but I can't even rock with it, stop it, its not not for a nigga of stature am I not with it but I aint with being the starving artist either Tryna buy my mom her dreams and put some diamonds on my diva Plus I listened to Aaliyah and she told me yes she told me that I'm that one out of a million nigga tryna make it homie so I just gotta believe and never get comfortable its go hard or go home, and I'm headed to W hopefully there's a mint on my pillow waiting for me cuz life is a box of chocolates as I'm living out my dreams its what it seems
