This might seem a little difficult at first
But if you put in the time, you'll come out on top
Think of it like pouring a glass of milk
No mind games or secret codes
And then you get to drink

Arithmetic takes center stage
2+2 becomes a maze and I should just snap my fingers

But I cannot tie this easy knot
I cannot make my TV work
I must have been born unable
But I look so able...

I can sing for hours in a day
Lull myself to rest if I am numb
I can snore like the dickens

What if I lost all this mastery?
Gave it away by accident
What would I do then?

Could I buy it back
Could I buy it back, please?
How much do you want for it?

A dollar? oh, a tell will do

How about some kind a guarantee?
Stamp it on
Can I trade it?

And just imagine, the thrill that I've felt
Trying all these death-defying stunts
You say "it's normal baby" but if that's so
Then people have effortless success

You can do, you can do anything
If you set your mind to it
What if your mind doesn't work as it should?
What do you do then?

What if I should miss a step?
Do I, do I just start again?
Or can I patch things up
And go from there?

And just imagine, the thrill that I've felt
Trying all these death-defying stunts
You say "it's normal baby" but if that's so
Then people have effortless success
