An old man trips and stumbles
He dangles on for fools
Along comes one to save him
Helplessness he can't ignore
He says lend me a hand I'll help you out son
The older man shakes his head
No, Says I can do it myself boy
Go mind your own business instead
A rescue mission that has been failed
He walks away with his face down
Cracks a smile, blinks his eyes
Figured it's alright after all he had good intentions
As long as he had good intentions

A black Jeep stuck in traffic
Bumper to bumper no where to run
A driver juts to the shoulder
Says hold on tight we're gonna have some fun
She comes and makes her way down
The dreadlock blast their horns in disgust
But in the review mirror
Sirons screams with a lust your busted
Thanks a lot stupid
Now we're gonna be late
It was silly of me to let you decide our fate
Of all the crazy remarks she could have made
She chooses to say it's alright I had good intentions
And as long as I had good intentions
Everything is alright
Ohh I say

Tempo Change

It'll all it'll all it'all be alright
It'll all be alright

Yellow balloons and lighted candles
All set up so nice
The family gathers up and shuts off the house lights
Well shush shush quiet down no body make a sound
Daddy's comin home nobody circle around
Well push crack the door smacks against the wall

Surprise is screamed at the top of their lungs
And like cut down tree daddy just simply
Crashes through the room like he'd been through a war
The codiac swirled from the stench of his breath
The family just watched with their mouths hung down
No they couldn't believe the turn of events
It's alright after all he had good intentions
Good intentions
So it's fine
It's fine
It's just fine
