Why do we never get an answer when we're knocking
at your door
With a thousand million questions about hate and death and war?

at your door
With a thousand million questions about hate and
death and war?
Cos when you stop and think about it, there is nothing
that we need

In a world of persecution, when it's burning up with greed

Why do we never get an answer when we're knocking
at your door
With a thousand million questions about hate and
death and war?
Cos when you stop and think about it, there is nothing
that we need
greed
