you don't understand the way we feel to you our lives are so unreal you hope it's just a passing fad we'll aspire to live the lives that you never had you say that we should not complain hear it over and over again but you don't seem to realize how uncertain you've made our lives criticize everything we do chastise what you don't approve your life is lies we despise you can't even look me in the eyes to you our lives are so unwise you say that you hear everything but it's obvious you're not listening you don't understand, you can't realize, ignorance is in your eyes! you truth is just a point of view don't care about it or any of you you think you've made our lives so great no generation ever had such a fate
