Mrs. Cambie, I'm so sorry I just couldn't help but stare
At that pink, fox-collared raincoat that you wear
When I left Tomato I had one foot out the door
And the other must have stayed there far too long

[Chorus]

But you must be doing alright (doing alright)
You brave the busiest lights, better than I
Still I'll be that you can't wait for the night to come

Mrs. Cambie do you live behind the sidewalks day to day?
Do you hurry to the bus stop in the rain?
I sure hope I didn't ruin your only moment in the shade
Oh pardon me, I'll now carry on ahead

[Chorus]

Did you ever love, be loved by another?
Is there anyone home, a son or daughter?
Or have we left you a solitary soul?
I'm so sorry, please don't go

Mrs. Cambie, do you carry all the faces in your tea?
Your life's a masquerade that hold you silently

[Chorus]

I know that you're doing alright, better than I
You seem to handle the light, better than I
Still, you can't wait for the night to come
You can't wait for the night to come
