Going through this city, beyond the highway,
I can see a light

I make my small pain sparkle inside of my chest
Because it's finished disappearing now

I can't catch up
I thought like that, but

I'm not scared of anything
Still, there are only unknown things

I run through, raising my speed

Because, no matter what, I don't even know where I'm going,
I do it

The red sky is reflected, like in a digital camera
It's colour is added to

An impossibly sentimental thing
I think I want it to stop

But it's unbearable

It kept on breaking, because I thought like that

I'm plugging my ears
Still, there are only unknown things

I run through, raising my speed

Because I'm not going to the conclusion that stands still
I do it

I want an answer
Even though I've asked a question...

"I'm not progressing forward

I'm not coming to see"

I can still decide that

I'm not scared of anything
Still, there are only unknown things

I run through, raising my speed

Because I don't want it to end as it is yet
I do it
