with eyes so stunning tonight,
you know that you could stop their hearts so be careful not to kill yourself with the reflecting images in your room.
and i will lose you in the emptiest of places so long as you cross your heart that this planets still spinning
and will you whisper into my ear when we are all just emptier now.
i will lose you in the emptiest of places and i will stare at you with the blankest of stares. i never thought you would hear me say...i never thought i'd say this.
right now you mean everything to me, sometimes your
all that i have...
so hold on to the times we've got.
sometimes this life makes me feel just like i could die
right now without you.
but theres something about me like theres something about your skin.
it cant always be there for you but in the coldest of nights it will keep you warm.
