Haven't we met before I swear those fancy boots have danced around this simple town before.
I said haven't we met before I swear I've heard that voice ramble on and on about limousines and cheap cigars before.
The rain hasn't quit since you strolled in so what's holding those shoulders proud and what's keeping that chin up with the gray clouds Big shot with a big mouth you better keep it quiet when you're out and about cause you're the number one to be gunned down close the blinds, brace the door that's right, when you sleep you better keep an open eye at night you're not alone tonight so think twice to walk around from under street lights when you're out
you better keep an open eye at night the talk hasn't stopped since you strolled in and it's killing us slowly now so pack your shirt take a bow and get the hell on out arms crossed against a brick wall, you bet I'm close watching cause you spit when you talk so hold that tongue and get a head start running you'll hit the road I'll let the bad times roll into a ditch would sure fix you up.
