

Small Victory, A "When Hearst Were Gold"

we were never ones to give it all up and just let go and no matter what i cant help but think of when our hearts were gold.
i remember that new morning when the sun never came up.
i remember that look in your eyes, remember tha look
in my eyes.
thats when you thought you lost it all.
ive been doing some thinking,
im sick of hearing my favorite songs play on your stero.
well every rock seemed to fall into place and just where we wanted them to.
those steps were as rusty as our perception of days ahead.
sometimes we cant stop the wind from changing and darlying it will be alright if we give it a good fight because somethings are worth holding on to forever,
like autumn nights, we cant let this end.
