Artist: Blues Traveler

Song: Crystal Flame

Sitting in clover looking for the fifth leaf

something soon will come my way

never failing to amaze me

I feel it's wisdom anyway

Rays of sweet illumination inspiration too untold

I hope that some day I can befriend it

I think that comes with growing old

Crystal Flame

I'll do anything you say

at least you fill them when I play

Light so bright it hypnotizes

but it never hurts to gaze never to burn or char with fire

Simply the heat from warmer days

And when the moment tends to savor when the song is close at hand that frozen amber fills my vision letting the brightness take command... take command

Crystal Flame

at least you fill them when I play

Please, please won't you take me away

It's easy, easy just let me play

Please, please won't you take me away

It's easy, easy just let me play

Sometimes it's brilliance all around me

Sometimes it's light I barely see

And though I utilize its grandeur

It does not belong to me

Cause all I can do is vague description as I do my best to share the smooth perfection I can only dream of The flow of all the life that's there .. life that's there

Crystal Flame

at least you fill them when I play

Keep me save and never lonely let the rain fall where it may and let me find the peace within me

I can find it when I play

They say that solid wet or vapor the only forms that are portrayed to them I ask one burning question of what stuff are ideas made... are they made?

Crystal Flame

at least you fill them when I play
Sitting in clover looking for the fifth leaf
Something soon will come my way
