Oh, oh

Took a while to drag me out of bed
Aim some coffee at my head
Saw the clock, I'm running late
It's an ordinary day

And I'm like a dog on heat
Knock one out and then fall asleep
It's sad but true
I'd rather be with you

Don't you forget about me
When you're a celebrity
It will be only you and me
Before too long

So little time, so much to do
I rather spend my days with you
So little time, so much to do
I'd like to spend one day with you

And if that day is not enough
Maybe we can stay in touch
But I'm not making plans for tomorrow
For tomorrow never comes

For tomorrow, oh

Said, I've been celibate for years
Not out of choice, there's no one here
See I can't give my end away
Another ordinary day

And I've love to see a little more of you
You're clothes would look better on my bedroom floor
Bedroom floor, bedroom floor

Don't you forget about me
When you're a celebrity
I know you're busy
But we all need somebody before too long

So little time, so much to do
I rather spend my days with you
So little time, so much to do
I'd like to spend one day with you

And if that day is not enough
Maybe we can stay in touch
But I'm not making plans for tomorrow
For tomorrow never comes

Oh, oh

Never comes
Never comes
For tomorrow
Never comes
