Am I suppose to follow orders?
Am I suppose to stand in line?
'Cause what I love is crossing borders
And help the one that falls behind

I think you're so pathetic
Spinning on you're tie rack
You think you're so poetic
Painting your sins in black

We love the shady politician and watching killers on the news
When everything's a competition
There's always someone bound to loose

Please, just don't let them blind you
With promises of welfare
They feed you lies and you chew
Do you really think they care?

Go bite the hand that feeds
'Cause all that they've been feeding us is war
Not going back again
Where money matters more
Shivering
Still shivering on my own

Go on and l-l-lick the stripper
That's all the action you will get
Your wife knows everything about her
She isn't finished with you yet

You like them slim, blond and tall
Pornography and popcorn
Another brick in the wall
The sinner is reborn
