It's up to you if I will break, there's nothing holding you back anymore
I'm pretty sure I'm in your way, it's nothing like it used to be before The shadows seems to be my friends, I'm hiding here under my bed today
I'm breaking down but holding on, I need to vacuum under here anyway

When there is nobody near you, there is none that can hear you
There is no one to hold you When there's no one to see you, nobody wants to be you
There is no one to catch you

I breath your dust just to survive, a life without it seems like such a waste
It creeps me out to be the flaw, but this is all because you lack good taste

When there is nobody near you...

I am such a fool, thinking you could change
When there's nothing good
I have nothing left, that's your greatest theft So I just give in

When there is nobody near you...

When there is nobody near you...
