Revelation, unknowing has been taken
Why had I waited so long?
Refrained for this love
Never open to the hope He has

How could I reject this?
He was cling my name
Searching for me
I always turned away
Not wanting to believe
I had a need for Him

Feeling this emptiness
Not knowing He could fill
Drowning in my efforts to find comfort
I searched and strived for the answer
But every step I fell
And the earth crumbled under me

Now I found this rock, this stable place
The pain has gone away
I place my hope in no other

My heart it cries, it toils inside me
Wanting all to have this life
Wanting all to know this love
But I'm reminded of my turning
Closing my eyes, running the other way

But I've decided I opened my eyes
To find more than I was looking for
My mind screams, knowing this is for all
But not all want what I've found

Now I've found this rock, this stable place
The pain has gone away
I place my hope in no other
