I heard you said that girls like me are better off
red. But you know what the say,
the free market closes at the end of the day.
Well I always thought it's not what you're given,
it's what you got. THE satus quo,
it's killing me. You want to see the lower class bleed,
but I gotta believe there's a problem with the system
now, where most of us have nothing.
We'll keep the two-thirds you allow.
Check to check with half of that to pay my rent.
Send the rest to interest on my growing debt.
I know what I'm worth and it can't be measured by the place of my birth. The status quo it's killing me.
You get your gun, you upper class blood.
I believe there's a problem with the system now, where most of us have nothing. We'll keep the two-thirds that you allow.
